Topic: Cultural competence (awareness, knowledge, skills) and cultural humility (openness to learning about the cultures of others) are both necessary for accurate empathic understanding of a client's felt experience. This hour will be an opportunity to flex these muscles and grow our skills.

About the presenter: Ron Miyaguchi (BA Univ of Hawaii, MA, PhD Miami Univ, Ohio) is a psychologist at UO Counseling Services and at the Eugene Center for Anxiety and Stress. Ron is president of Lane County Psychologist's Association and on the board of the DisOrient Film Festival, celebrating independent Asian American films focused on social justice.

Ron teaches workshops on:

- Cultural humility for health care professionals
- Developing clinician self-awareness to enhance multicultural orientation
- Navigating cultural competence in a modern organization
- Effective communication strategies for diversity focused organizations
