Join with other local mental health professionals to discuss the ins and outs of running a private practice. Topics will depend on questions brought by attendees, but could include:

- practice structure
- waitlists
- insurance and fees (note that per insurance regulations we cannot discuss specific reimbursement rates)
- policies
- out of session communication boundaries
- technology
- anything else pertaining to running a healthy therapy practice

Note that this is not a space for clinical consultation. Whether you are just getting started or years into your practice, we hope you will join in the discussion.

About the presenter:

Erin Crozier is a licensed psychologist and member of the EBHA board. She offers individual and group psychotherapy in a private practice in Corvallis. Her areas of focus include gender identity and perinatal mental health. While only five years into her own practice, she has offered Private Practice 101 seminars to new professionals and has mentored others in the community. She is enthusiastic about demystifying private practice and helping others feel confident in building a fulfilling and sustainable business. She believes that while none of us have all the answers, we benefit by drawing on the shared wisdom of our community.
